“ There's so much I can say about Linda. She helped me get through the death of my parents who tragically also died when they were hit in a head-on collision. She would listen to me cry and was patient with me when I wanted to let grief take over. She reminded me there was good in the world and proved it to me with her love and kindness. She stepped in to plan my wedding and baby shower knowing I needed her stubborn determination. She was firm on making those events happy ones for me instead of sad ones and she did. She always encouraged me to be better, stronger, and to trust in myself. When we worked together she was a mentor to me and taught me to be outspoken when needed and steadfast. I still often remind myself to "channel my inner Linda" when I am in tough or uncomfortable situations and it always brings me through. Of all the things I can say, most important is, I loved her, my kids loved her and we will always miss her.
